

Thank You to Brian McGregor

When it comes to cancer, there are plenty of statistics to demonstrate the scope and impact this disease has on our lives:

- More than 20 million people worldwide are living with cancer.
- One in two men and one in three women will be diagnosed with cancer during their lifetime.
- Three in four families will care for a family member with cancer.

To you, as well as to the entire Lance Armstrong Foundation team, these statistics are not simply numbers. They are people. People like you and me, and people like Brian McGregor.

Every day at the Lance Armstrong Foundation we hear personal stories from people about how cancer has touched their lives. They turn to us to help them in their battle and to assist them in taking an active role in the cancer fight, by giving back and providing hope to others in their community and around the world. There is no greater example of this than Brian and what he has accomplished through Cancervive. Brian exemplifies the spirit of LIVESTRONG – fighting every day by raising his voice and much needed funds for the millions of people across the globe who are fighting cancer.

On behalf of the staff and the board of directors of the Lance Armstrong Foundation, I would like to say thank you to Brian. Thank you for inspiring us through your courage and for motivating us through your strength and perseverance. The funding you have provided to Well Spring and the Lance Armstrong Foundation should be applauded, and you should be proud of the difference you have made in so many individuals' lives through the Cancer Warrior program. Brian, you are a true embodiment of LIVESTRONG and we are fortunate to have you, and the entire Cancervive team, as members of the LIVESTRONG Army.

Congratulations on all that you've accomplished and many, many thanks.

LIVESTRONG,

Lance Armstrong
